Gas probe at site before building can begin

QUARRY HOMES GET GO-AHEAD

Report by Richard Guttridge

DEVELOPERS will have to investigate issues with underground gas before works can start on transforming a disused quarry into a residential area of more than 280 homes.

FCC Environment has been given the go-ahead to proceed with a 30-year masterplan to fill in the Edwin Richards Quarry at Rowley Regis and build 281 homes on its southern edge.

But the developer has admitted there is work to be done before construction can begin to ensure that the site can be built upon.

Concerns were raised at a meeting of Sandwell Council's planning committee that there were issues surrounding gas emissions from the site.

The quarry has been used for landfill in recent years with household waste having gone into the ground. This will be removed and replaced with soil and non-hazardous materials as part of the development process.

It is hoped the gaping hole that is the quarry will eventually become a green space to be used by residents of the new homes.

FCC Environment said the development would regenerate the land and extend Rowley Regis. Bosses have also said it is not 'practical, sustainable or desirable' to leave the site as it is. But Dave Molland, from FCC Environment, admitted there were problems to be overcome.

He said: "There is a gas issue that has been ongoing for a while and we are in discussions about where the gas is coming from. There will have to be a phase of study on the site to look at the ground conditions and assess gas migration."

Lorries

Mr Molland added: "This application is an outline, the principle of it. There are a lot of details to be finalised and there is a lot more work to do."

A huge waste management facility would be built on the site in order to manage the tens of thousands of tonnes of soil. Some 6,000 tons of materials would be driven to the site in lorries next year. A gas utilisation plant and a waste vehicle depot would also be set up.

The outline plans were approved by councillors after they had visited the 100,000 sq ft quarry ahead of their meeting. Experts at FCC said the quarry poses provides 'health and safety management issues' in its current state.

The homes could be built by the beginning of the next decade but the overall project to fill in the quarry would take up to 30 years.

MUMS URGED TO BLING BUGGIES TO RACE FOR LIFE

DUDLEY mums are being urged to bling their buggies in pink and involve their children in this weekend's Race for Life.

Thousands of women are anticipated to take part in either the 5k or 10k event at Himley Hall on Sunday to raise money for Cancer Research.

Netherton mum Sophie Hansen, aged 22, is taking part with her ten-month-old daughter Scarlet and her mum, Ruth Rosendal Hansen. The three generations will take part in memory of Sophie's nan, Patricia Adams, who died of lung cancer seven years ago.

Sophie, who works at KFC in Halesowen, said: "As a mum, I wanted to support Race for Life so I can play my role in helping beat cancer for future generations."

"A lot of women don't realise that Race for Life is pushchair friendly and walking with a buggy is a great way for new mums to keep fit. What better motivation to start training than knowing you're doing your bit to help beat cancer sooner."

Cancer Research UK's Race for Life, in partnership with Tesco, is a non-competitive series of 5k and 10k events which raises millions of pounds every year for research into more than 200 different cancers. Last year more than 3,000 women took part in Race for Life in Dudley and raised £180,000.

Tracey Duffy, Cancer Research UK's Dudley Event Manager, said: "Young people today are the generation who could see ground-breaking treatments and cures for cancer in their lifetime. But we'll only get the knowledge and technology we need to win the war on cancer through research."

VIOLENCE

Woman was attacked as she walked home

POLICE are hunting a sex attacker after a woman was assaulted in Stourbridge as she walked home following a night out.

Police have launched an urgent appeal for information after the 25-year-old woman was attacked in Green Street at around 2.50am on Sunday, June 28.

The woman was walking home when she was approached by a man, described as being in his early 20s with a foreign accent, West Midlands Police said. He followed her for a short distance before pulling her into a car park where he then assaulted her.

Robber in silver helmet is on camera

The suspect in his distinctive helmet, as seen on the store's CCTV

A THIEF wearing a distinctive motorbike helmet is being hunted by police after brandishing what is believed to have been a gun during a robbery at a supermarket in Halesowen.

Police were called to the Co-op on Manor Lane, Howley Grange, after the man wearing the silver helmet walked into the store and made threats to staff.

He demanded cash and then left the store by the back door during the incident on Monday, June 29.

Detective Constable Simon Wil-mott, from Dudley's Acquisitive Crime Team, said: "We are sure someone will recognise the distinctive silver and black helmet and may know someone who owns one that matches that seen in the CCTV."

Shaken

"Fortunately, the members of staff were unharmed during the robbery but were obviously left very shaken."

Anyone with information can call 101 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555111.

Call for a full review after hospital blunders

THREE separate blunders reported by health chiefs running a hospital in the Black Country have prompted a MP to call for a full review – to ensure that lessons are learned for the future.

In one case, a mother had to go under the knife for a second time to remove a swab left inside her following a Caesarean section.

The three 'never events' were recorded by Sandwell and West Birmingham Hospital NHS Trust in the past three months. The trust, which runs Sandwell Hospital, City Hospital, in Birmingham, and Rowley Regis Hospital, said it had been 'open' with patients over their mistakes.

Halesowen and Rowley Regis MP James Morris called the incidents 'very serious mistakes' and urged action to discover the cause.

The Care Quality Commission, which told the trust it 'requires improvement' in a recent report, said it would be holding talks with the trusts after the botched procedures came to light.

Health bosses revealed that in one of the 'never events' a patient had the wrong kidney treated for kidney stones.

Preventable

The incident involving the new mother's second operation occurred at City Hospital. They revealed another patient was anaesthetised for an operation on the wrong limb at Sandwell Hospital.

'Never events' are preventable serious incidents that has the potential to cause serious harm or death.

Mr Morris said: "These incidents are very serious mistakes, and full reviews need to take place to ensure that this does not happen again. I welcome the trust's honesty in reporting these 'never events' openly and I'm assured that the necessary steps will be taken to protect patients against preventable mistakes."

Medical director Richard Stedman said: "Never events should not happen and yet we know that they can and do occur in NHS organisations across the West Midlands. Staff worked hard to achieve over 400 days here with no never events. I am very confident we can continue to make changes to reduce the risk of their occurrence."

Pub campaigners toast success

Cheers — Campaigner Tim Haskey with landlady Laura Eden and supporters of The Haden Cross

Campaigners who secured protection for a Halesowen pub are celebrating after developers ran out of time to appeal.

A review took place after the Haden Cross in Halesowen Road was listed by Sandwell Council as an Asset of Community Value (ACV). Pub owner, Jersey-based property developer New River Retail, had requested an internal review of the decision, which as owner it has a legal right to do.

Last month Sandwell Council confirmed its decision to list the pub and car park, as an ACV, which allows the community to put together a bid should it go up for sale.

The owner had a month to appeal the decision, which has now expired without a bid being lodged.

Friends group chairman Tim Haskey said: "Congratulation to all Friends of the Haden Cross. New River are now out of time to appeal our ACV."

The Haden Cross was the first pub in Sandwell to be given ACV status. New River Retail has declined to comment on the council's decision.

Meanwhile, more than 300 people signed a petition against New Retail plans to build a Co-op store on the site of the Maypole in Bass Lane, Halesowen.

A campaign has been launched to save the pub from demolition after an application went to Dudley Council.

New River Retail bought 200 pubs from Marston's in 2013.

Raids seize 11,000 fake cigarettes across city

ILLEGAL cigarettes worth nearly £3,000 have been seized in a series of raids on shops in Birmingham.

Trading standards officers and a team of sniffer dogs struck at stores, off-licences and a cafe across the city. They confiscated a total of 11,320 individual cigarettes from six premises – with more than half taken from just one shop.

Monday's raids were part of a crackdown on the sale of illicit tobacco. These are products which have either been smuggled in, illegally produced or for which no duty has been paid.

Trading standards said the products will be destroyed. The names of the businesses have not been revealed at this stage of the investigation.

Crime

Councillor Barbara Dring, chairman of the city council's licensing and public protection committee, said: "These raids have successfully taken around £3,000 worth of illegal tobacco out of circulation, which we believe has strong links with wider criminal activity and brings crime into our neighbourhoods. This is why it's important to clamp down on it."

"Those involved in dealing in illegal tobacco may be encouraging people, including children, to smoke by providing a cheap source. Selling illegal tobacco is a crime which also impacts on those businesses that are trading legally."

"Seizures were made at six premises and offenders need to know that they will face consequences if they choose to deal in these illegal products."

Mental health pledge by MP

AN MP has said he will act as a 'champion for mental health' after being re-elected to chair a cross party group.

James Morris, Conservative MP for Halesowen and Rowley Regis, will continue to chair the All-Party Parliamentary Group on Mental Health. He has chaired the group since 2013 and played an influential role in helping shape mental health policy.

"Most people would agree that mental health has sometimes been the Cinderella service in the NHS, underfunded and not given the same priority as other health conditions," said Mr Morris. "I have helped publish a report into 'parity of esteem' which has highlighted recommendations for the Government. I will also ensure that the Government fulfils its commitments on mental health."

£5m revamp will create 150 jobs

A £5 million revamp of a Black Country retail park has been given the go-ahead by Sandwell planners. Quadrant Estates has been given planning permission to give Wednesbury's Gallagher Retail Park a facelift including three new restaurants creating around 150 jobs.

Australian firm selling its half of Merry Hill

QUEENSLAND Investment Corporation is selling its 50 per cent stake in Merry Hill for around £500 million.

The Aussie firm bought its share in the huge shopping complex from former owners Westfield, an Australian shopping centres group, for £524m in February 2007.

The stake is expected to formally come to market later this month and QIC has appointed leading commercial property consultants CBRE to handle the sale.

The shopping centre, now rebranded as intu Merry Hill, is run by intu Properties, which bought the other 50 per cent stake in March last year for £407.5m from Westfield.

Mike Butterworth, chief operating officer of intu, said: "We are aware of QIC's plans to sell its half share of intu Merry Hill. The change has no implications for intu's ownership, management or future strategy and we look forward to working with a new investor."

Customers

"Within the centre, for our customers, retailers and restaurants, it is business as usual."

Merry Hill has 1.4m sq ft of retail space on two levels with 214 shop units and a further 3000 sq ft of other retail space. Its 290 stores and shops attracts around 25 million shopping visits each year.

QIC, created in 1991 by the Queensland government, holds numerous other retail assets mainly in Australia.

Warning to watch out for thieves

THIEVES have been stealing iPads, mobile phone and purses from people shopping at supermarkets in Blackheath.

Seven thefts took place last week at stores in Oldbury Road, Halesowen Street and Long Lane.

One victim had an iPad stolen after they left it in their trolley, while another had their phone taken after they left it on top of their shopping while packing.

A third victim's purse was pinched from inside their bag when it was left on top of their trolley.

Blackheath Neighbourhood Police Team is urging people to be vigilant.

Anyone who spots any suspicious behaviour is asked to call police on 101.

Shoes the one — head over heels in love!

Phil and Donna, reunited over a shoe

IT'S a real Cinderella story for childhood sweethearts Phil Wiggin and Donna-Anne Hadley who have got married following a chance meeting over a missing shoe.

Phil and Donna — who had last seen each other 30 years previously — were reunited in 2013 when Donna took bags of clothes and shoes into the Cash In Clothes shop on Hagley Road West, Oldbury, where Phil is a volunteer.

Shortly after leaving Donna realised she had only dropped off one of her leopard print heels, and it was when she went back days later to hand in the other one that the fairytale reunion took place.

Phil, aged 48, who lives with Donna in Clent View Road, Bartley Green, said: "It was a real Cinderella moment as Donna had only come in with one shoe to the pair."

"It was a real chance meeting as I only volunteer on certain days. We recognised each other instantly and started catching up, within a month we had moved in together."

Phil and Donna first met at Adams Hill High School, now Bartley Green

School, in the early 1980s and became school sweethearts when Donna was 13 and Phil was 15.

Donna, 46, said: "From the moment I went into the shop we hit it off — it was just like old times."

The pair got married on Saturday in Somerset. In the years apart Phil moved to Ireland before returning to Birmingham six years ago, where he also volunteers for the Animal House Rescue charity. He has three teenage children from a previous marriage. Donna is a receptionist with National Probation Service in Birmingham.

MP leads campaign to halt enterprise zone

MORE than 3,600 people have signed petitions against controversial plans to create an enterprise zone next to the M5 in Halesowen.

Dudley Council has agreed to investigate the possibility of transforming land bordering Manor Way and the motorway into a hub for businesses.

But there are fears the development site could incorporate part of the green belt.

An online petition called Save Halesowen's Countryside has been signed by more than 3,090 people. Halesowen and Rowley Regis MP James Morris also launched a petition after concerns were raised by constituents, and it has more than 540 names.

Dudley Council last week agreed to press ahead with plans to develop more than 200 acres of land bordering Manor Way and the motorway into a new hub for businesses, which they say could create up to 6,000 jobs.

New firms could also be able to take advantage of incentives offered by being part of the enterprise zone, such as tax breaks.

But campaigners fear a stretch of green belt will be swallowed up by the scheme which has been modelled on the i54 on the Wolverhampton and South Staffordshire border.

The Halesowen Abbey Trust has attacked the plans saying the area is "historic countryside that Dudley Council are seriously threatening".

Proposals

Dudley Council has stressed that no final decisions have been made and that they are merely exploring the proposals at present.

MP Mr Morris said: "We have launched this petition so that the people of Halesowen can demonstrate to Dudley Council how wrong they are with these proposals.

"Our local greenbelt is something we should be preserving for future generations, not condemning to large scale development. This particular site is bordering the Halesowen Abbey ruins, which is an important part of our local heritage. I encourage all of Halesowen's residents to demonstrate their feelings and sign this petition."

Dudley development boss Councillor Khurshid Ahmed said it was important to look at the 'bigger picture' of the region's economy and promised 'detailed consultation' with local people.

Mayor sees what's app-enning

It's an app-y day for Chairman of the Black Country Festival Steve Edwards, Black Country Chamber of Commerce President Ninder Johal, the Mayor of Dudley Councillor Steve Walther and Freecom International Managing Director Mike Geer

A FREE app has been launched to keep people up-to-speed on this year's Black Country Festival.

The app can be downloaded onto smartphones, and features the latest news and events from the festival, which runs throughout this month.

The Mayor of Dudley, Councillor Steve Walther, visited the home of Freecom Internet Services Ltd at the Waterfront, in Brierley Hill, where the app was created.

Mike Geer, who runs the company, offered to create the app free of charge to support the festival.

He said: "We're really pleased with how it's turned out and hope thousands of local people will download it. Dudley Council have supported the festival so we thought it was right the mayor should officially launch the app."

Councillor Walther said: "The staff at Freecom have been great and it's a tremendous gesture they have created the app free of charge for the community."

Black Country Day is on Tuesday, July 14. The festival's main event is in Dudley Stone Street Square on Saturday and other events on Saturday include Sedgley Fun Day at St Chad's Primary School, Catholic Lane; Wall Heath Summer Fair; Gornal Fun Day at Vale Street Rec; and on Sunday Pensnett Fun Day at The Dell Stadium.

THE BEST OF PETER RHODES

SUMMER: The season when, having spent nine months waiting for a few hot days, you remember you don't really like hot days.

WOMEN in Japan are reportedly flocking to a zoo to see Shabani, an 18-year-old silverback gorilla who has been likened to a male model with "brooding good looks". I have a blind friend who has just received a new guide dog, a flat-coat retriever which is a similar hit with the ladies. One female admirer sighed: "If that dog was human, he'd be Poldark."

TV subtitles which are produced instantaneously for news bulletins are a rich source of merriment. But when the sub-titlers have all the time in the world, there's no excuse for getting it wrong. I am currently ploughing through the box set of the fine Gillian Anderson thriller The Fall (BBC), set in Belfast. The subtitles refer to those "distant Republicans". Dissident, as it turns out.

A READER may have solved the two biggest problems facing Europe, African refugees and Greek debt. He writes: "Why not combine the two? Write off the interest repayments and in return Greece finds a home for all the migrants and refugees that no other member states can accommodate. The population growth and house-building boom will stimulate their economy and they will grow their way back to economic fitness."

MEANWHILE, is anyone considering a scheme for British families to sponsor Greek families? There is tremendous sympathy towards ordinary Greek people. A hundred quid a month may not be a lot to some UK families but it would be manna from heaven for a cash-strapped family in Athens or Corfu. After the First World War, British towns and cities adopted war-wrecked towns in France and Flanders to help in their recovery. Politicians and bankers clearly haven't a clue how to get Greece back on its feet. Maybe it's time for the ordinary people of Europe to have a go.

Council to cover costs of victims' funerals

THE funerals of three generations of a Black Country family who were killed in the Tunisia terror attack will be paid for by Sandwell Council.

The gesture comes as it was revealed memorials will be placed at the Banks's Stadium in tribute to the three Saddlers fans – Adrian Evans, his father Patrick Evans and nephew Joel Richards.

Council leader Darren Cooper revealed that the authority would cover burial fees and other funeral costs for the victims.

Adrian Evans, from Bilston, worked for Sandwell Council. Councillor Cooper said it was 'the least we could do'. The gesture is expected to save the family around £5,000.

He said: "We have spoken to the funeral directors and it has been agreed between the council and the co-operative to waive the fees for the burial and the funeral for the family."

Silence

The funerals are expected to take place in the next few weeks.

They were among 30 British holidaymakers shot dead by gunman Seifeddine Rezgui on a beach and in a hotel at the resort of Sousse.

More than 2,000 people observed a minute's silence for 19-year-old Joel, Patrick, aged 78, both from Wednesbury, and Adrian, 49, at the council house in Oldbury on Friday – and thousands more joined a nationwide silence for all the victims.

A separate service was held at Walsall's Banks's Stadium, which was attended by Joel's brother Owen Richards, aged 16, who survived the attack, and his mother Suzanne.

The victims were Saddlers fans and hundreds of supporters paid their respects along with Walsall manager Dean Smith and the first team squad on what was designated a national day of mourning. The service and minute silence was held amid a sea of scarves, flowers and tributes.

A statement on the official Walsall FC Facebook page thanked the football family for the tributes and said memorial bricks will be put outside the stadium. On the club's Facebook page, Joel's mother Suzanne also said thank you for kind words of support: "On behalf of my family, a big thank you. Walsall FC did my son, dad and brother proud."

Volunteers Mac a difference

Volunteers from McDonald's Mike Matthews and Kira Smith

A TEAM of volunteers rolled up their sleeves and grabbed paint brushes to help spruce up Halesowen town centre.

Judges from Britain in Bloom will be coming to Halesowen to cast their eyes over the town on Wednesday and volunteers from fast food chain McDonald's did their bit to help out with final preparations.

Ten members of staff from five local restaurants gave up their time for free to spruce up Somers Square.

Eve O'Connor, chairman of the Halesowen in Bloom committee, said: "We have had volunteers from all over the town come out and give us hand."

"The staff from McDonald's did a great job painting, gardening and litter picking and really making the town look in bloom. We are really grateful for all the help and time that people put in – it has really made a big difference in the town."

The annual campaign has seen gardens, buildings and shop fronts transformed by colourful flowers as the community comes together.

Ahead of the judges' afternoon visit, Mrs O'Connor added: "It is all coming together very nicely."

Tributes to nurse killed in accident

TRIBUTES have been paid to a hospital nurse who died after being thrown from his motorbike in a crash on his way to work in Dudley.

Christian Hugh Davies – known as Hugh – was hailed as 'caring and courageous'.

The 50-year-old died after his Honda was involved in a collision with a white van, around a mile from Russells Hall Hospital where he worked.

The crash happened on Pedmore Road at the junction with The Gateway just before 7pm on June 30 and police are appealing for witnesses.

Tributes have been paid to Mr Davies, a charge nurse who had worked at the hospital since 1991. His partner Julie Adams said: "Hugh is the love of my life, my best friend and my soul mate. He is the best thing that ever happened to me and made me laugh every day."

Mr Davies' daughter Tanaya, 19, described her dad as her hero and said that he was 'a caring, courageous and very cheeky man'.

Mr Davies lived in Amblecote, having grown up in Kingswinford. It is understood staff across the Dudley Group NHS Foundation Trust were observing a minute's silence in his memory. A book of condolence had been opened at the hospital.

The driver of the van was spoken to at the scene. Anyone who witnessed the collision is urged to call Sgt Alan Wood on 101.

Carnival is back with better site

Crowds enjoying Halesowen Carnival in Highfields Park

THE Black Country Festival began in glorious sunshine as hundreds turned out for the return of the Halesowen Carnival.

It had been 30 years since the event was last held and there was no shortage of smiling faces at Highfields Park on Saturday for the revived event.

Dancers, live music and a dog show were among the attractions put on by organisers to accompany stalls around the edge of the field.

Councillor Stuart Henley, who is on the organising committee, said:

A late change of venue caused a headache but Halesowen's big day was a rip-roaring success

"We have had brilliant feedback from everyone here. Everyone is having fun. This is a community event all about bringing local people and businesses together."

"We will build on this in the future now people have seen how successful and popular it has been."

Just a few weeks ahead of the event, organisers' plans were disrupted when they were forced into a late venue change after council officials said pathways in Hunting-tree Park, which previously hosted the event, were not strong enough to cope with heavy vehicles bringing equipment on the site.

But despite spending an extra £1,000 on revised promotional material, Councillor Henley said he was pleased with the new venue.

He explained: "I was disappointed about missing out on Hunting-tree Park but personally now I think this is a better site and hopefully it will be the site for many, many years."

The carnival celebrated one of the Black Country's best loved comic, Tommy Mardon, who died last year, and his family were invited as guests of honour.

Celebrate

There was also the traditional crowning of the carnival's king and queen. Shaun James, an A-level student at Windsor High School and Sixth Form Centre, is Halesowen Carnival King. He said: "You can see from the crowds who have come how the community has come together."

"Obviously we have been lucky with the weather too."

"It is nice to come together and celebrate the Black Country and Halesowen."

Carnival Queen Grace Dunham, who met the 1957 carnival queen Joyce Knowles, added: "The festival is such a big part of the history of Halesowen. It has been really nice to be part of it."

No Denture problem?

Our solutions are right here on your doorstep

Infectious laughter, happy moments and "me" time meet Denture Clinic implant patients John and Gillian. Both were prescribed implant retained over-dentures

Solutions at a glance

Traditional dentures

Implant dentures

Suction solution

"We don't just prescribe dentures, we transform looks, recover lost smiles and often play a part in transforming lives," says founder and principal of the Denture Clinic.

By any measure, it's a big statement, but his practice is well placed to make such claims with some 3,500 patients on the books and an ever-growing portfolio of happy clinical outcomes.

The clinic's prosthetics, prescribed and crafted on premises at his multi-disciplined dental practice in Dudley have found satisfied patients from as far away as Spain and Portugal.

Others wishing to resolve long-term denture issues have travelled from Dorset, the Isle of Anglesey, the Isle of Skye and London.

Over the last decade the Denture Clinic, based in North Street, has encountered some heart-rending accounts of how ill-fitting teeth have dislocated lives "but thankfully it has never failed to deliver a successful clinical solution," says principal Steven Burchell DipCDT RCS(Eng) GDC 108353.

"Prosthetics have been the butt of every comedian's joke, but things are changing. There's no reason for anyone to put up with uncomfortable and unsightly dentures any more and talking about them is getting easier.

"It wasn't that long ago that an amalgamation between glamour and dentures was unheard of, but these unlikely descriptive bedfellows are now increasingly being fused together at our clinics in Dudley, Wolverhampton, Kidderminster and Dorridge," adds Steven.

Youthful, engaging smile

Evangelical about what new-generation denture prescriptions can achieve, Steven adds: "Dentures have traditionally never been associated with cosmetic makeovers, but our high-quality prosthetics have quite literally taken years off some of our patients, reshaping sunken cheeks and pinched lips."

The palette of solutions to deliver a more youthful, engaging smile has never been so great, with traditional, handmade-on-the-premises prosthetics; suction diaphragm dentures; and implant-retained over-dentures.

"We have often been privileged to transform looks – and lives – providing teeth that not only are aesthetically pleasing and hugely functional, but successfully support facial structures just like real teeth."

"Can dentures ever be glamorous? Emphatically, yes," he says.

Strident advances in technology, improved materials and revised clinical procedures are all helping to "drive the denture revolution forward and it's easy to add a real sense of natural-looking glamour to a clinical outcomes," he says.

By far the most sustainable and predictable results are found in implant-retained overdentures, where permanently fixed implanted 'studs' in the jaw secure the prosthetic.

"For those with the right bone density, overdentures guarantee stability," adds Steven.

Implants, however, are not suitable for all and a cutting-edge suction valve device that holds prosthetics in position is another popular option.

With the Ultra Suction system a clever diaphragm principle, triggered by bite pressure on patients' gums, creates a 'sucking' vacuum between the soft-tissue mouth lining and the prosthetic.

"The device can be mounted on upper or lower teeth and because of its efficiency allows us to consider a reduction in the size of the acrylic 'plate' which can result in improved speech and taste."

Fastidious about quality

"For the right patient it can deliver excellent denture retainer qualities without the invasive procedures required for implant work, he adds."

Quality, handcrafted traditional dentures remain hugely popular. "Our on-premises manufacturing allows us to be fastidious about quality. We use only the best of materials and we have a mature, skilled team of technicians that supports us."

"The possibilities with good looking, functional prosthetics still continue to surprise us," says Steven.

Good time to serve up bad news in budget?

ON Wednesday, as the nation becomes engulfed in Ashes fever, and while tennis fans watch some strange little tournament down London, the Chancellor will deliver what is widely expected to be one of this toughest budgets to date. Maybe my years in this job have made me cynical. But wouldn't it be a splendid day to bury bad news? ☐☐☐☐☐

TEN years ago this week, we had the radio on in the office when it was announced London would host the 2012 Olympic Games. A very bright young girl who was on work experience at the time asked if this would put Britain at risk of terrorism. "No chance, it's seven years away, the terror threat will be long over by then," was more or less what I said in reply. How stupid those words seem now. ☐☐☐☐☐

IN his own inimitable and respectful style, armchair revolutionary Russell Brand declared that the Tunisian massacre was all David Cameron's fault, and that the minute's silence held in honour of the victims was 'complete bullshit'. Only in slightly different terminology.

Well Russell, my old son, what I suggest is that you choose what you consider a more worthy cause, something dear to your heart. It can be anything, global capitalism, multinationalism, the soaring cost of burlesque outfits, whatever you like. And then observe a period of silence in recognition of it. More than a minute's silence, I suggest. Two or three years should do the trick. ☐☐☐☐☐

ALL of two days of sunshine, and the moaners were out in force. The unions started banging on about temperatures in the workplace, the rail companies warning about bending tracks, it's amazing the schools didn't jump onto the bandwagon and say it is too hot for the kids. Two days, that's all we had before it started raining. Stop complaining and enjoy it. ☐☐☐☐☐

OF course summer also means the festival season is upon us, where thousands of students and ageing hippies show their disdain for materialism and capitalism by paying 70 quid or more to giant multinationals to camp in a field for two days listening to bands nobody has heard of. ☐☐☐☐☐

It looks as though they took it a bit further in Flaxley, Gloucestershire, where around 500 free-love fans attended a giant wife-swapping festival. Apparently, one or two of the neighbours were a bit perturbed, particularly one who found a gatecrasher climbing over his fence. The banners declaring 'there is the magic number' and the sex-toy trade stands raised one or two eyebrows as well.

The event was called Swingfields. I wonder how many people would have thought this was a Glenn Miller festival?

George, aged 18, seen during pilot training in the United States

The official unveiling of the plaque telling George's story

Final resting place, the young pilot's grave in Caligny

French village tribute to heroic pilot George

A community in Normandy has shown its respect at the grave of a brave pilot for 70 years, ROBERT COX reports

AMID the atrocities of war are stories of remarkable human kindness.

Among them is the heart-warming tale of the determination of a French community to honour an RAF pilot from Kinver, who died when his plane was shot down over their rural hamlet in Normandy.

Pilot Officer George Boucher was aged just 21 when he was shot down on August 5, 1944, crash landing near Caligny, which has a population of fewer than 1,000 people.

Among them was Claude Pailleux. He went immediately to the wreck, which had been surrounded, he later recalled, by around 100 German soldiers.

After a long process of negotiation, and at the risk of reprisal, he convinced them to let him take the body for burial.

In a 1946 letter, Claude wrote: "The plane came down in flames in a field of beetroot. The pilot however had time to jump by parachute, but without doubt too near the ground, for it had hardly opened. On the morrow – Sunday – we were able to make him a coffin of oak by a local carpenter to bury him worthily."

Liberated

"We buried him at the foot of a little shrine at the edge of a highway in the hamlet of Caligny. Around 100 people were present at the funeral at 3pm in the afternoon.

"He was buried in a shroud and a score or so of wreaths were placed there. He was therefore buried with all the respect due to his courage."

Caligny was liberated by the 11th British Armoured Division on August 16, 11 days after George was killed.

In the letter to George's parents, Claude promised them he would take care of George's grave, a promise which the Pailleux family and their community have kept ever since.

This was in keeping with the wish of George's mother that her son's remains should stay where they were buried in Caligny rather than being transferred to a military cemetery.

A close friendship has since grown between the two families. The Boucher family first visited George's grave in the 1960s and have been travelling to the area regularly since.

This culminated last month in the unveiling of a memorial plaque, telling George's story, on the wall of the chapel next to his grave.

The plaque includes details of his remarkable military career and how the insistence of a Frenchman ensured he got a dignified burial.

Nearly two years earlier, in October 1943, George had made a forced landing in northern France, in the Pas-de-Calais region, after his plane was damaged while attacking a train in occupied territory.

In a letter he explained how he was saved by the French Resistance, so he could return home to continue the war against the Nazis.

He wrote about the aftermath of that crash landing, explaining: "I ran on to a road, on which was a Frenchman in a cart. I had learned French at school and spoke to him. He said he could not help me but told me to hide in the hedge."

"About an hour after the crash three German soldiers arrived and mounted guard over the aircraft, and I learned afterwards that two lorries loaded with soldiers went round the roads in the district."

With the help of the French Resistance, George avoided capture and survived a long and hazardous journey through France to neutral Spain, returning to England to fly again.

The plaque was paid for after the Boucher family managed to raise £1,655 in donations from family and friends. George's nephew, Mike Boucher, travelled to the unveiling ceremony with brother David and those who had helped with the appeal.

He said: "The ceremony itself was a wonderful occasion but, as I said in my address on the day, the grave has been tended ever since George was buried in 1944. Claude Pailleux's widow is still alive. We sort of grew up with her family."

"The grave is very unusual in that it is on its own and people may get the feeling it is forgotten but it is not. It is a wonderful story associated with it."

Mr Boucher, who is the assistant head-teacher at Summerhill School in Kingswinford, says his family are immensely grateful to those from the French Resistance who helped George and, of course, to the people of Caligny.

He added: "For Claude to have negotiated a burial with German soldiers in the middle of the Normandy campaign takes some doing. His sister Jacqueline later became the prime carer for the grave for 30 or 40 years. Then the mayor of Caligny gave the promise the community would always look after the grave, which has been kept by all the mayors since."

Don't blame store for poor parking plan

A PLANNING decision taken by Dudley councillors has come up with a Dudly councillor's has come up with a Tesco have quite reasonably reduced free parking under their newly built store to just two hours. These same councillors are now expressing their 'disappointment', huffing and puffing though there is nothing much that they can about it.

After struggling to park elsewhere, and probably annoying residents by blocking up their streets, it's inevitable that the good citizens of the Stourbridge area will give up and footfall to all three of our important civic facilities will decline. Forgetting that these facilities were built for the benefit of the community, our elected councillors will then declare them no longer financially viable. — here's a good excuse to have a few less buildings to worry about — and closing them all down.

Before this happens, I challenge our councillors to come up with a fit-for-purpose solution to a problem of their own making. I challenge them to implement a solution that won't lead to our historic market town becoming just another fun loving 're-vitalised' charity shop centre.

Healthy enthusiasm for a euphemism

SICKNESS has been abolished, it is no more. Humankind can rejoice! And what medical breakthrough has brought about this utopian dream? It has nothing to do with medicine at all. Sickness, disease, malaise, call it what you will, has finally been defeated by certain local authorities through the machinations of middle management and human resources.

No longer are we sick or ill but merely 'absent'. We no longer feel pain, discomfort, fatigue or distress — we merely inconvenience our employers by, for no apparent reason, absenting ourselves from our place of work.

So no more need for the cumbersome, weighty and expensive NHS. The medical profession has been eclipsed by the altogether more streamlined and efficient power of the 'absence management' movement. No blood or drugs for them, nor indeed any years of pointless expensive training. No, to defeat illness and sickness one only has to call it by another name, that name being 'absence', implying both absence of illness as well as absence from the workplace. Not since Orwell abolished 'hatred' by calling it 'love' has language been so effective and, in this case, so efficacious!

Heart of the problem is in France

DO the French want us to take back Calais? Legend has it that Bloody Mary, one of our favourite rulers, railed on being told that the French had stolen the last English possession on the continent:

'Damn it! When I'm dead and opened, you will find Calais written on my heart.'

Judging by the constant chaos in that city, may bewt should offer to take it off their hands and run it in a manner not reminiscent of some Third World country.

The mayor is often seen on TV, blaming Les Roast Boeuf for creating the problem and wanting more of our cash and police, so why not go the whole way? This is me being mischievous but it's quite obvious that the level of unrest dictates that the army should be called in. This is a French problem and the French should sort it out. They want free movement of labour and boy have they got it.

I have played Lotto since it started but feel enough is enough and will no longer participate. I also feel sorry for players who keep the same numbers every week but will be reluctant to change them to incorporate the additional 10 new numbers.

The only people who are going to benefit will be the Lotto organisers who will be paying out less in prize money because there will be fewer winners.

MORE than 1,000 runners took to the streets of Halesowen for the annual Black Country Run as the celebrations for the Black Country Festival got under way

The 5K and 10K races, organised by Halesowen and Rowley Regis Rotary Club, were hailed a great success.

Councillor Steve Walther, Mayor of Dudley, officially started the 10k race as hundreds of runners set off around the streets of the town.

Sarah Norman, chief executive of Dudley Council, was among those who took part in the run as was fundraising legend Blind Dave Hee-ley, of West Bromwich, dressed as one of the three blind mice.

Alan Bowler, organiser, said: "It was an outstanding day and we have received a wonderful response back from everyone."

"From starting the event four years ago with around 400 runners it is now fantastic to see over 1,000 people turning out for the day."

"We had participants from all over the UK take part. It's really great to be able to put on something like this that puts the town of Halesowen on the map too."

Councillor Walther added: "It was great to see so many people out in Halesowen taking part. This is one of a number of events throughout this month as part of the Black Country Festival and shows that the festivities have really captured people's imaginations."

This year's Black Country Festival promises to be even bigger and better with support from the community to put on a variety of entertainment across the borough.

Jail put on hold over attack on paramedic

A MAN who kicked a paramedic who was trying to give him medical assistance in a Black Country street has escaped an immediate stint behind bars.

Aston Hamilton lashed out at a paramedic in Hope Street, West Bromwich, booting him in the shoulder as he tried to perform a pain stimuli test to check consciousness levels.

At Sandwell Magistrates Court last week, Hamilton, aged 59, was jailed for 12 weeks suspended for 12 months after he had been found guilty of assault by beating.

West Midlands Ambulance Service NHS Trust has welcomed the sentence and said that assaults against ambulance staff are 'completely unacceptable'.

A medical team had arrived at the scene on June 10 in response to a report that an unconscious man was lying in the street.

When paramedics arrived they found Hamilton in the street and began to administer first aid. On treating him they found that he was breathing normally and not in any danger.

But when a paramedic attempted to carry out a pain stimuli test by squeezing Hamilton's finger, the defendant shouted at him and kicked out. One of the blows hit the victim's shoulder, resulting in him requiring medical treatment.

Police were alerted and Hamilton was arrested at the scene. As part of his conviction Hamilton, from Lozells, Birmingham, was ordered to pay £150 compensation, £350 costs and an £80 victim surcharge.

Bindi Athwal, District Crown Prosecutor from West Midlands Crown Prosecution Service said: "Medics should be free to work without fear of being physically or verbally assaulted, especially by those individuals like Aston Hamilton whom they are trying to help."

All aboard as Europe footy trips kicking off

TWO business-minded football fans are offering lovers of the sport the chance to witness the beautiful game across Europe. Wolves fan James McGovern, aged 30, from Stourbridge and Aston Villa supporter Kai Rigby, 35, from Aston in Birmingham, are to organise road trips for fans to visit footballing stadiums across the continent.

After meeting in Manaus, Brazil, during last year's World Cup, the pair hit it off and decided they wanted to offer lovers of the sport the chance to see the sites and cities that form part of the culture around the beautiful game.

The business, called Football Road Trips, has only started this summer, with one of the first packages put together by the pair offering Wolves fans the chance to watch two games from their team's pre-season tour of France which kicked off this week. Mr Rigby said: "Me and James are definitely in this for the long haul. James is a massive Wolves fan so he is delighted we get to go and watch them as part of our first trip."

Midlands needs more than JLR

DANIEL WAINWRIGHT
Political Editor

IF the Midlands is to be the 'engine for growth' so desired by the Chancellor, it's going to need a lot more than Jaguar Land Rover at the i54 to keep it from just ticking over.

That is not to in any way belittle the £500 million investment on the South Staffordshire/Wolverhampton border.

But it does at times appear as though it's the biggest, if not the only, show in town in an effort to show what's being done to revive the economy.

The letters JLR roll off the tongue of virtually every council leader, executive or visiting minister wanting to talk up the achievements of the West Midlands.

Worse

The growth figures, of course, suggest this region is leading the way in improvement. It just had a much worse position to start from than many other areas when it came to unemployment. Replicating the JLR success is the dream for virtually every single council across the West Midlands.

To do that, they want to embrace George Osborne's 'enterprise zones' – designated development sites which come with relaxed planning laws and tax breaks.

When it came to JLR at the i54, Wolverhampton and Staffordshire councils were able to team up and borrow the money to do the £37 million worth of slip road extension work on the M54 – a major pulling factor for a car maker that needed good and quick access to the motorway network for its suppliers.

George Osborne, on visit to Westley Plastics, Cradley Heath, with James Morris

Now Dudley Council has its own version of the i54 in its sights – more than 200 acres of land bordering Manor Way in Halesowen and the M5 motorway. The dream is 6,000 jobs. The nightmare is the perceived threat to the green belt.

The Halesowen Abbey Trust says there is 'historic countryside that Dudley Council are seriously threatening'. Some of the Conservatives in Dudley agree with the opponents, including the Halesowen and Rowley Regis MP James Morris.

He accompanied the Chancellor on a pre-election visit to Westley Plastics in Cradley Heath where Mr Osborne made his vow to create apprenticeships and enterprise zones. The problem may well be that the real big money spinners will want a blank canvas, and a massive one at that, to bring their new high end manufacturing sites to. The solution would be to split up the enterprise zone perks and spread them across multiple brownfield, derelict, former industrial sites which the Black Country has in abundance.

No word yet from the Chancellor on the impending closure of Goodyear in Wolverhampton after nearly 90 years on the site.

That's odd, given how George Osborne is so keen on the Midlands as an 'engine'. What about the tyres?

The parallels between now and the late 1920s are striking.

Back then, towns all over Britain were competing to get the tyre maker in. Wolverhampton won. Fast forward to today and enterprise zones are all about attractive incentives. Getting JLR was a fantastic coup. But the sad decline of Goodyear, where my grandfather worked shows the danger of putting all our eggs in one basket.

Strictly prickly plants

A GREEN-FIGURED duo have continued their remarkable run of success after winning yet another gold medal for their stunning cacti.

Business partners Stan Griffin and Vicki Newman only set up their West Bromwich firm Craig House Cacti in 2007 but have since enjoyed near constant success.

In May they won their seventh consecutive RHS Chelsea Flower Show gold medal and more recently they won gold at the RHS Hampton Court Flower Show. Mr Griffin, aged 67, estimated Craig House Cacti has now won around 80 consecutive gold medals since its unbeaten run started in July 2009.

And naturally it is the Chelsea medals he said that have been most satisfying.

He said: "The Chelsea flower show is the crème de la crème of flower shows. There is no finer show in the world so you have got to think getting the gold medal seven years in a row is quite the achievement. It is an ongoing process where we just try and up the standard with the plants for the display all year round."

When appearing at Chelsea the prickly plants tend to attract a lot of attention from celebrities. This year big names who stopped for a photograph included Strictly Come Dancing star Brendan Cole and his wife Zoe.

Mr Griffin added: "The celebrities take an interest. It is nice to be appreciated that way."

The duo has also been celebrating the heat-wave which had hit the nation this week. "To be honest our plants absolutely love the heat like this," explained Mr Griffin. "The flowers pop open like nobody's business while everyone else is watering like mad."

Lay ministers licensed by the Bishop of Dudley

With the Bishop of Dudley, the Rt Rev Graham Usher, are lay ministers Kim Topham, Maureen Hughes, Melissa Rose, Jacqui Green, Quarry Bank's Val Houghton, Geoff Westwood and Pedmore's Mary German

NEW lay ministers have been licensed to preach in a ceremony conducted by the Bishop of Dudley, the Rt Rev Graham Usher.

Seven from Dudley, Sandwell and Worcestershire were admitted to the office of reader at Worcester Cathedral.

Readers are trained and licensed lay ministers in the Church of England authorised for preaching and teaching. They undergo a two year training course before being admitted to the role, after which they carry out a wide range of tasks within their parishes and beyond, especially helping others to reflect on their faith and how it relates to their daily lives.

Mary German was licensed for the parish of St Peter's Church, Pedmore, Stourbridge. She said: "It has been a marvellous experience to work with those training for ordination in the Church of England as well as Christians of other denominations. The work has been rigorous but very enjoyable."

Val Houghton from the Brierley Hill Team Ministry at Christ Church,

Quarry Bank, was also licensed. She said: "The training course has been challenging but rewarding."

Melissa Rose from Holy Trinity, Old Hill, has also become a lay minister. She said: "I'm now looking forward to serving our churches and my community with a renewed spirit and informed mind."

Licensed lay ministers, also known as readers, are part of an accredited public ministry of the Church of England. It is a voluntary, unpaid ministry with approximately 10,000 licensed lay ministers nationally and around 130 in Diocese of Worcester.

Keys handed over for animal hospital

Senior vet Ian Fleming and head nurse Lisa Williams with the keys to the new PDSA hospital in Oldbury

THE keys have been handed over as the finishing touches are made to a £2 million veterinary hospital in Oldbury. Building work is complete on the new PDSA Pet Hospital, in Wolverhampton Road, to replace its base in Quinton.

The hospital will house operating theatres, a critical care ward and the latest diagnostic and surgical equipment.

More than £1m has been raised to pay for the hospital, to be called The Marian and Christina Ionescu Centre of Surgical Excellence after a heart surgeon and a cardiologist, both animal lovers, who made a significant donation.

Charity officials are now making a final plea for support to secure the remain just under £300,000 needed to fit out the new hospital. It is hoped that the hospital would open in the coming weeks.

PDSA's team of vets and nurses in Quinton provide more than 90,000 treatments a year. The new hospital will allow staff to increase these numbers by around 25 per cent to provide more than 112,000 treatments annually. Anyone wishing to help PDSA can do so by texting 'build' to 70099 to donate £2, or text 'build' to 70800 to donate £5.

Scheme is submitted for Albion supporters

A BIG screen, stage and food stalls will all feature in the new fan zone being planned by West Bromwich Albion.

Proposals have now been submitted for the supporters' area at The Hawthorns pub, opposite the ground in Halfords Lane. The closed Grade II-listed pub, will be the centrepiece of the fan zone.

It is hoped the move will improve the matchday experience for fans.

Bosses want to bring the pub back into use as part of the scheme and restoration works are already under way. The fan zone would feature temporary pop-up facilities that would be dismantled after matches.

A match day car park would also be created at the site of the Classic Drinks premises off Birmingham Road. Officials say the area would create 'pre-match family orientated entertainment' before each of the club's home games.

A stage would be erected as a focus for activities during the warm-up to games. Canopies will feature in the area to give shade and shelter fans in all weathers on matchdays.

Mobile catering vans would be bought onto the site to sell food and refreshments to fans.

By Andrew Turton

There is also plans to have an area for a sponsors' hospitality unit and a club shop stand to sell official merchandise. Toilets would also be built.

A planning statement, submitted with the application, said: "It is not anticipated that the supporters' entertainment area will increase the number of people congregating around the football ground on match days. It will however assist in the management of people movement into and around the football ground."

Approval was granted last year to knock down the Grade II-listed pub's 'west wing' to make way for the fan zone.

How cool are we? The band pose with an American-style gas guzzler in the 1980s

Bernie Marsden jams with The Red Lemons

Neil Bullock, Dave Green, Bob Pountney, Dave Crowley, Paul Roberts, Iain Willets, Jim Merris and Suzi Perry

Hold on, they're coming back as blues band tune up for 30 year reunion gig

IMAGINE being in a band with your best friends, playing some of the country's best known venues with rock legends like Chuck Berry and Robert Plant.

For members of The Red Lemon Electric Blues Band it will soon be time to reminisce as they mark their 30th anniversary by getting the band back together for a special gig.

Future motorsport television presenter Suzi Perry would appear as a dancer to stage with The Red Lemons, who her father used to manage.

Radio and TV presenter, and Baggies fan, Adrian Chiles even featured as bass player in an early line up of the group.

Now they are preparing for a home town gig for fans at Stourbridge Town Hall on September 11 in a one-off show.

Frontman and group founder Jim Merris, now 51, said: "It is like a family. We had such a good time and we were good friends. It is going to be a brilliant night."

The group were formed in 1985 after Jim

MEMORY LANE

Report by Adam Burling

was inspired by hit film The Blues Brothers starring Dan Ackroyd and John Belushi, which featured lots of straight-faced humour, car chases and music from a host of soul, blues and jazz stars.

"I was given a copy of the film by a friend and watched it four times in a row," said Jim. He bought a Pontiac Parisienne car for £200 to have a big American-style car like those in the movies and determined to sing and play harmonica in a blues band.

He was able to secure a slot at The Broadway pub, in Norton, Stourbridge, and set about starting up a group featuring guitarist Iain Willets, pianist Dave Crowley, Neil Spryson and a young Adrian Chiles on bass.

"It was phenomenal. People absolutely loved it," said Jim, who had met Adrian at Hagley at gigs in and around the Black Country. After just a handful of gigs, Adrian and Neil left the group for university. Drummer Neil Bullock, who is now one of the country's top drummers, bass player Dave Green and Bob Pountney, who played trumpet, joined the group, and a few months later so did trombone player Paul Roberts — and he is travelling back from his home in Australia for the reunion. Sue Clarke sang with the group.

The Broadway, JBs in Dudley and now demolished Stewponey roadhouse pub at Stourton were among their regular venues.

After a couple of years they took on manager, Tony Perry. He had co-run the PMA agency based in Waterloo Road, Wolverhampton, and had been a director of the Lafayette club in Wolverhampton as well as managing the band Trapeze, whose members went on to join Deep Purple, Black Sabbath and Whitesnake.

They went on to find fame outside the Midlands, even outside the UK, by performing at jazz and blues festivals. They played at the Royal Albert Hall with reggae star Desmond Dekker. In 1991 the band was invited by Chuck Berry to be 'special guests' on his UK tour. The band also played on the same bill as Robert Plant and Whitesnake's Bernie Marsden even guested with the band in Birmingham.

Father-of-two from Quarry Bank Jim is still gigging, with Big Jim's Boogie Band, but he says their best gigs were at Stourbridge Town Hall. "They were electric nights, jam-packed and there was always great banter," he said.

Latterly bassist Paul Turner performed with the group and now tours with Jamiroquai, while saxophonist Rob Hughes has performed with ABC.

The gig in September will also mark a moment to remember band member Dave Crowley who died 21 years ago in a mountaineering accident on Snowdon.

The concert at Stourbridge Town Hall on September 11 is a 30-year reunion and former manager Tony, of Finchfield, said: "It should be a great night, it is like them coming home." Tickets are available online at Midland Box Office or call 0870 320 7000.

Believe the hype, it's Public Enemy

Rebels without a pause — New York's Public Enemy top the bill in Birmingham as Moseley Park gets funky

LEGENDS of hip-hop Public Enemy are top of the bill for the first night of the Mostly Jazz Funk & Soul Festival in Birmingham this weekend.

The New York outfit, founded by and still featuring Chuck D and Flavor Flav, will be the main attraction tomorrow night as Moseley Park celebrates all things funky for three days.

Public Enemy, — replacing The Sugarhill Gang as Friday's main act — changed the sound of hip-hop and rap during the 1980s with albums that yielded such tracks as Fight The Power and Don't Believe the Hype.

The acts on Saturday include Caribbean funk band Cymande, Red Dwarf and Coronation Street actor turned Radio 6 superstar DJ Craig Charles and jazz vibraphone master Roy Ayers. The main attraction on Sunday is jazz-hat wearing singer Gregory Porter on a bill that also features The James Hunter Six and Latin grooves from ten-piece band Baila La Cumbia.

For each day's full line-up see the mostlyjazz.co.uk website. Tickets for Saturday have sold out.

Meanwhile, there will be opportunities to see Public Enemy again when they play the Barclaycard Arena as support for The Prodigy on December 3, and Gregory Porter when he ends his UK tour at Birmingham Symphony Hall on April 24 next year.

Divine Miss M at arena

AFTER a 35-year absence from the UK stage, multi award-winning singer Bette Midler is back in Blighty.

The star of stage and screen will take to Birmingham's Barclaycard Arena tonight (Thursday) as part of her Divine Intervention tour.

Since releasing her first album The Divine Miss M in 1972, which won her first Grammy, Midler has become a global star as an actress, singer and comedienne. Last year she returned with hit album It's The Girls!, a tribute to girl groups from the 1930s to the modern era.

But achieving success has not been an easy ride for the ambitious performer who left a factory job in Hawaii for the mean streets of New York as a teenager in the late '60s. She got a couple of roles on Broadway before developing her outrageous cabaret act on the city's gay scene, where her musical director was a then unknown pianist named Barry Manilow. "I started off as a girl wanting to be an actress but I was not the obvious choice so I focused on singing," she says. Just as well, as the star of The Rose in 1979 went on to sell more than 15 million records worldwide. But the 69-year-old says she is glad she is not starting out in the business now.

"I would not even want to hazard it," she explains. "The music business is so treacherous and crowded. There are people who can barely sing but that doesn't stop them."

She added: "I discovered people in this business will hurt you. A lot of people cannot stand a woman with power and it was left for me to learn that you have to stand on your own two feet."

'The music business is so treacherous'

Shalamar aiming to make you feel good

ONE of the top R&B bands of the 1970s and '80s, Shalamar, are performing at Bilston's Robin in 2 venue on Saturday.

The trio was created for US TV show Soul Train and had hits with Take That to the Bank, A Night to Remember, I Can Make You Feel Good and There It Is. Jody Watley left in '83 and Carolyn Griffey has sung with them since 2003. The other two members are singer and dancer Jeffrey Daniel and Howard Hewett.

Former Spin Doctors frontman Chris Barron will join New York's punk/anti-folk poet Lach at the Robin on Monday, while Grammy Award winner Mary Chapin Carpenter is at Birmingham's Town Hall on Wednesday.

Spotlight on youth music and dance

MORE than 8,000 young musicians are taking part in Music for Youth's week-long festival at Birmingham venues Symphony Hall, Town Hall and the Adrian Boult Hall, with free pop-up performances around the city.

It includes a jazz concert tomorrow night hosted by Birmingham's Soweto Kinch at the Town Hall.

Meanwhile, DanceXchange showcase work by their young dancers at their base in Birmingham Hippodrome on Sunday at 5.30pm. On July 16 at 7.30pm young dancers are joined by professionals to show talent in Dynamic Youth at Wolverhampton's Arena Theatre.

Legend will make a Beautiful Noise

THESE are Diamond days at the Genting Arena, Birmingham, with rock and pop legend Neil Diamond in concert at the NEC venue this Saturday (sold out) and next, July 11 and 18.

The Grammy Award winner and Rock and Roll Hall of Fame member has sold more than 125 million records worldwide since his career as a performer began in 1966. The 74-year-old New Yorker has an awesome back catalogue with songs such as Sweet Caroline, Cracklin' Rosie, Forever In Blue Jeans and Beautiful Noise. Last year he released his 32nd studio album Melody Road.

Tickets start at £73.83.

Time for Bedouin after enjoying taste of heaven

NO postcard, picture or poster does them justice.

Gigantic stone monuments more than 3,000 years old, each with beautifully carved artwork portraying ancient kings and mysterious gods, with the bright colours still visible today.

Three main temples created over a 1,300 year period by powerful pharaohs with enormous brick walls covered with propaganda. Surrounded by stone sphinx, statues to the kings and obelisks, the Temple of Karnak in Luxor, Egypt, is the largest temple complex ever built.

The Valley of the Kings once boasted 5,000 visitors a day. Today it struggles to reach 1,000 – but footfall is increasing with stability in this proud country.

Venturing into Egypt can feel like entering an untouched paradise. When strolling past the ticket inspector at the entrance to King Ramesses II's tomb, I'm told the queues used to snake around the entrance at the height of tourism.

Egypt - by Alex Ross

My trip with Red Sea Holidays started from Birmingham International Airport. Five hours is all it took to get into the newly-built terminal at Hurghada Airport.

My accommodation was the 280-room five-star Makadi Spa Hotel. Within the complex there were five restaurants plus two international buffets. Bars surrounded each swimming pool at the hotel, which also had its own private beach just a two-minute walk away.

But I wasn't just there to relax as an adrenaline-fuelled quad biking excursion in the desert followed the next day, travelling for about 20 minutes before stopping off to visit a camp of desert natives called the Bedouin. They live in their own community away from the rest of Egypt and once one person leaves he can never come back. However, they allow visitors to the camp, invite them in to look at a wide array of spiders, scorpions and snakes in an animal centre, and give them bumpy camel rides.

Vibrant

After lunch at an international restaurant and dinner at the hotel's steak dinner, we trekked out to the port area of Hurghada. It had a vibrant feel about it and we ended up in Friends bar for some drinks and a smoke of shisha.

I set off the following day on a snorkelling trip. But as the sun came down, I headed for Orange Bay – an unbelievable sight of long white beaches with a shallow bay which stretched out for more than 200 metres. The afternoon flew by before we returned for the best meal of the trip – a Lebanese restaurant called Tarbus at the neighbouring Grand Makadi Hotel and watched the night go by with traditional Egyptian dances.

The next morning I visited Karnack Temple and the Valley of the Kings and later joined the five-star MS Grand Rose a cruise boat on the River Nile in Esna, which set off on a three-hour cruise, while I sipped cocktails and relaxed on top deck.

The evening was finished off with a meal in the ship's own restaurant, followed by more drinks on the top deck and a luxury overnight stay in a cabin.

Back at base, I slipped into the swimming pool at the neighbouring Sunwing Hotel's waterpark and even tried some of the water slides. When I returned, flying back to London Gatwick, knowing I had tasted heaven.

Inside the incredible world of identical twins

We always agree, don't we? We've got the same ideas. We often have the same dreams. We always have the same thoughts. It's like talking to the same person. It's like we're one brain.

That's the thoughts of Christine and Louise Miller, and probably sums up what most people think being a twin is like – that shared experience and, possibly, a kind of psychic connection.

For those of us whose siblings were born years apart just don't understand what nine months of sharing a womb can mean. We may be boring and mundane, but at least nobody knows what we're thinking 24/7 – because that would be a bad thing, right?

Not according to those featured in this fascinating documentary, which introduces viewers to a variety of twins from different backgrounds who have extraordinary stories to tell.

Among them is Anais Border, who grew up in Paris after being adopted by a French couple, but discovered she had a twin sister living in Los Angeles after seeing footage of her online.

"I assumed someone had just posted a video of me online," she says. "When I watched it, I realised it wasn't me, but I was like, 'who's that?'

It was, in fact, Samantra Futim, an actress who had appeared in Memoirs of a Geisha. The girls shared the same birthday and had been born in South Korea. They eventually met in London.

"I think we spent five minutes looking at our teeth, and our nose and our eyebrows and hands," smiles Anais. "Getting our DNA results was the last stitch in the pillow. Knowing that everything we'd hoped for, and already knew, was actually true."

Brenda and Bonnie Bowers were identical twin girls who grew up together in America's mid-west.

"All our activities were together and people looked at us as a unit," reveals Brenda, who is seven minutes younger than her sibling. "We did have the same tastes. If I didn't like something, I'm positive Bonnie didn't like it either. I always knew where she stood, what she was thinking and feeling."

Despite that close bond, Brenda was stunned when Bonnie initially came out as a lesbian, then opted for gender reassignment. They now claim the choice made by Bonnie – who renamed himself Alden – has, in fact, brought them even closer together.

"We grabbed on for dear life, to go through this together. It made me hold on even more to the idea that we're twins. I can easily say it's just a name change. There's that core connection that can't be broken."

Other siblings featured here include Malcolm and Andrew. Now toddlers, their bond proved useful when Andrew alerted his parents to the fact that Malcolm was struggling to breathe.

Tim and James Brown from Liverpool both suffered kidney problems as toddlers, but only James recovered fully.

Luckily, Tim had a ready-made kidney donor available, thanks to his brother James, when he desperately needed a transplant.

The differences between twins may be small, but it is not unusual for twins to react differently to illness.

Tim and James Brown in Secret Life of Twins, Wednesday, ITV, 9pm

BEST OF THE REST

MONDAY

Laurence Llewelyn-Bowen: Cracking China, BBC2, 9pm

With his foppish dress sense and even more flamboyant taste in interior decoration, Laurence Llewelyn-Bowen was arguably the break-out star of the hugely successful Changing Rooms. His fame helped him to launch his own range of cushions and picture frames, which he sells through a well-known catalogue, but in the current economic climate, even household names face difficulties shifting their wares. Luckily, Llewelyn-Bowen thinks he has spotted a potential new market, as he tries to start a business selling to emerging middle classes of China and Mexico. However, instead of sticking to home decor, he is instead branching out into lingerie, and this documentary follows him in the build up to the launch.

TUESDAY

Virgin Atlantic: Up in the Air, ITV, 9pm

Cameras follow the launch of the company's new uniform, and Annie who has to fit out thousands of employees. Meanwhile, Rebe, Miri and Helen are putting together a style guide for company staff, and they want airline workers to be the magazine's

WEDNESDAY

Don't Tell the Bride, BBC1, 8pm

Former soldier Alex takes command of his military wedding to his bride-to-be Sacha. Having served in the army for seven years, he wants to celebrate the heroes of World War Two by getting Sacha to arrive at the wedding ceremony in an old war plane, then a tank. However, she is hoping his army days are behind him and is desperate for her big day to be a traditional, intimate event. With a mother-in-law to impress, and a bride hoping he will put her first, will Jason have to run for cover when his plans are revealed?

The Autistic Gardener, Channel 4, 8pm

Award-winning garden designer Alan Gardner and his team of fellow autistic horticultural enthusiasts visit Ealing in west London, where they have taken on a small garden with a big problem. James and Sophie's neglected plot is only eight by four metres and is on two levels, with a one-metre drop. The challenge facing the team is to make the most of the limited space available so that the garden looks and feels bigger, with just one week to make the changes and a budget of £1,200.

THURSDAY

Grand Designs, Channel 4, 8pm

In the second of four special programmes, Kevin McCloud looks at the challenges of self-building in the UK's most remote places, where beautiful landscapes often meet savage weather. Drawing on footage from 15 years of the programme, as well as new visits to extraordinary and incredible homes, Kevin reveals which designs work best, and why. Along the way, he interviews pioneers at the forefront of architecture in the wilderness and sees the astonishing lengths people go to live on the edges of society. Big Brother:

New MINI Clubman a better ride than ever

By James Parker

Another new chapter has opened in the re-generation of the MINI model family, with the debut of the new MINI Clubman.

Following the success of the re-energised MINI 3-door Hatch and the successful launch of the MINI 5-door Hatch, the new model offers customers a premium vehicle featuring the highest level of ride refinement ever seen in a MINI.

The car's much-loved signature design feature – its split rear doors – are retained, while accessibility and everyday usability are further enhanced thanks to four full-sized side doors.

The resulting car is a powerful fusion of sleek lines, innovative touches and first-rate materials with generous space for five occupants, excellent luggage capacity and classic MINI driving characteristics.

With a more mature and sophisticated design, the new MINI Clubman's dimensions are larger than those of the previous generation MINI Clubman. It's also 270 mm longer and 73 mm wider than the MINI 5-door Hatch, with a wheelbase which is 100 mm larger. The boot has a volume of 360 litres, which can be extended to 1,250 litres by folding the rear seats flat.

The latest generation of MINI TwinPower Turbo Technology engines have been installed under the bonnet, with three units available from launch – the MINI Cooper Clubman, MINI Cooper D Clubman and MINI Cooper S Clubman. CO<sub>2</sub> emissions are as low as 109g/km, with fuel economy of up to 68.9mpg.

New to the MINI brand is an 8-speed Steptronic transmission, available as an option on the MINI Cooper S Clubman and the MINI Cooper D Clubman. Exceptional handling comes courtesy of a suspension set-up which is unique to the new MINI Clubman.

Acclaimed

Numerous features make their MINI brand debut on the new Clubman, included an electric parking brake, full electric seat adjustment and the optional MINI Yours Interior Styles with backlit door bezels.

The new MINI Clubman includes MINI's highly acclaimed Navigation System as standard on all models, exemplifying the high levels of standard equipment across the range. Furthermore, every MINI Clubman also benefits from the MINI Excitement Package as standard, which features a projection of the brand logo on to the ground beneath the driver's side door mirror when the car is opened and closed, as well as extended interior lighting.

With production starting at MINI Plant Oxford later this year, order books for the New MINI Clubman open at MINI dealers nationwide this week.

Pricing for the newest member of the MINI family starts at £19,995 on-the-road for the MINI Cooper Clubman.

The new MINI Clubman showcases a contemporary re-interpretation of its predecessor's design, combining sporting style with outstanding functionality. The car's silhouette, with its extended roof line and steeply angled rear, remains an obvious link to the Clubman's heritage, both recent and historic.

Three VWs to get new ultra-frugal engines

By James Parker

UK order books are now open for a raft of new ultra-frugal petrol models in the Golf hatchback, Estate and SV. Powered by a new three-cylinder 1.0-litre 115 PS turbocharged petrol engine, the new Golf TSI BlueMotion returns 65.7 mpg on the combined cycle with CO<sub>2</sub> emissions of just 99 g/km.

Also available for the first time with a BlueMotion engine is the option of a DSG automatic gearbox. These cars combine the economy benefits of a diesel with the upfront price benefits of a petrol, with the Golf Match TSI BlueMotion costing £19,740 recommended price on-the-road.

The first deliveries of these cars are due in September.

At the heart of the TSI BlueMotion is a 1.0-litre (999 cc) three-cylinder turbocharged TSI engine from the EA211 series. This generates 115 PS from 5,000 to 5,500 rpm; standing still to 62 mph takes 9.7 seconds while top speed is 127 mph.

With 200 Nm, the TSI BlueMotion has the highest specific torque of any large-scale production series of petrol engines. This is available from 2,000 rpm, though 150 Nm is already delivered from just 1,500 rpm.

Combined economy for the Golf hatchback is 65.7 mpg with CO<sub>2</sub> emissions of 99 g/km for both the six-speed manual and seven-speed DSG versions. Such economy is achieved through substantial engine development as well as a number of aerodynamic measures.

By lowering the chassis by 15 mm, adapting the radiator grille, optimising the cooling airflow and fitting special underfloor panels and a rear spoiler, the Golf TSI BlueMotion's Cd value has been reduced to 0.28 (from 0.29 in the standard Golf).

The car also features super low rolling resistance tyres. While this improvement may sound modest, it should be noted that in developing the seventh generation Golf, engineers made a 10 per cent improvement in aerodynamics.

Integrated

Inside the engine, an ultra-rigid crankcase made of lightweight die-cast aluminium and its compact construction with three cylinders mean the 1.0-litre TSI is around 15 kg lighter than a comparable four-cylinder engine.

The exhaust manifold has been fully integrated into the cylinder head and fitted with a cooling jacket to make the best possible use of exhaust gas energy during the warm-up phase and to cool the exhaust gases even more effectively at high loads.

The TSI BlueMotion is also fitted with a toothed belt, which compared to a chain drive, reduces friction by around 30 per cent, while the maximum injection pressure of the 1.0-litre TSI is high for a petrol at 250 bar, while advanced five-hole solenoid injectors ensure precise fuel injections and results in faster energy conversion.

Unlike the diesel BlueMotion model which is based on the entry-level S, the Golf TSI BlueMotion comes as standard in Match trim.

As such it benefits from equipment highlights including ESC, XDS and seven airbags, an Automatic Post Collision Braking System, a PreCrash system, cruise control, stop/start with battery regeneration and driver alert (NB ACC and Front Assist are not standard).

The Golf Match TSI BlueMotion has 16-inch 'Dover' alloy wheels.

This new 1.0-litre BlueMotion engine will also be available in the Golf Estate and Golf SV, with predicted fuel economy figures of 65.7 mpg and 99 g/km (103 for DSG) for the Estate, and 62.8 mpg / 105 g/km (61.4/105 for DSG) for the SV.

Keeper McCarey 'on tenterhooks'

KENNY Jackett has revealed his disappointment at Tomasz Kuszczak leaving Wolves - and says fellow goalkeeper Aaron McCarey is 'on tenterhooks' as he awaits the result of a drug investigation.

McCarey will have an FA hearing this week as the investigation into a failed test for a non-performance enhancing substance concludes.

The 23-year-old faces a six-month suspension if allegations of drug taking are proven.

And Jackett said the keeper had come back to pre-season training in determined mood.

"It's been quite a tough time for Aaron over the months where they've been obviously gathering information and he's been on tenterhooks really."

"He's come back very fit and very determined and is training really hard."

"I'm sure a conclusion to it next week will be good for him and good for the club."

Kuszczak's exit and McCarey's uncertain immediate future leaves just Carl Ikeme as Wolves' only senior goalkeeper, with 20-year-old Jon Flatt in reserve.

Kuszczak, who made 13 appearances and kept six clean sheets last season when Ikeme was injured, offered a one-year deal by Wolves.

But the Polish international, formerly of Albion and Manchester United, opted for a two-year deal at Birmingham City.

Jackett said: "I was disappointed he didn't sign but obviously Tomasz was looking for a longer contract and first team football. With those two things in mind he's decided to take the Birmingham offer."

"I understand that and we do thank him for what he's done."

"In the games that Carl Ikeme missed last year, he was very consistent and we got a good points total out of those games."

"And just generally as a character he contributed to the group. He's a very positive character and very well liked."

"But from our point of view he's been offered a longer contract."

Antonio back on Albion wish list

ALBION could turn their attentions back to Nottingham Forest winger Michail Antonio if QPR refuse to lower their demands for Matt Phillips.

The Baggies are considering moving for 25-year-old Antonio if they cannot strike a deal for Phillips, who QPR value at £10m which the club refuses to pay.

And Albion could virtually break even on £1.6m signing Sebastian Blanco as the winger prepares to return to Argentina for a deal that could be worth up to £1.5m.

Tony Pulis is determined to transform his side out wide this season by recruiting at least two new wingers and offloading Blanco, who proved a poor fit for the club last season after his switch from Metalist Kharkiv in Ukraine.

Blanco has now returned to San Lorenzo in Argentina, where he spent the second half of last season on loan, and is training with the club as the Baggies prepare to put the finishing touches to his sale.

It is believed the deal could be worth £1.5m if all add-ons are paid, meaning the Baggies could still avoid a significant financial hit on the 27-year-old.

Substitute

Blanco made just three substitute appearances in the Premier League and started twice for Albion in the Capital One Cup.

Pulis remains keen on Phillips but Rangers are playing hardball on their £10m valuation and, after the Baggies had an initial £5m offer rejected, Antonio – valued by his club at £6m – is again a possible target.

The Baggies considered a move for him in January but a deal for the man who was plucked from non-league football by Reading in 2008 proved too costly.

His performances for Forest last season have alerted a number of Premier League clubs and he is thought to be valued at around £6m.

The Baggies have already signed James McClean from Wigan for £1.5m but are running out of time to add more new faces before flying to America on Sunday for an eight-day training camp that includes pre-season friendlies in Orlando, Charleston and Richmond.

Villa's new look on display

Villa have launched their new home and away kits for the coming season.

ASTON Villa's Jack Grealish, new signing Micah Richards, Ciaran Clark and Scott Sinclair all came out for the cameras to model the new kits for next season.

The kits are made by suppliers Macron and feature the logo of the club's new sponsor Intuit QuickBooks.

Whether Christian Benteke will be wearing it remains to be seen as he was due to return for pre-season training but was expected to tell boss Tim Sherwood he wants to leave.

The claret and blues boss reiterated earlier this week his desire to keep the 24-year-old striker.

However, there have been reports that Benteke has decided his future lies elsewhere and with Liverpool rumoured to be willing to match the £32.5million release clause in his contract, is ready to make his position clear. Villa had been hoping the proximity of next year's Euro 2016 championships might tempt the Belgium international into signing a new deal.

Benteke has scored 49 times in 101 appearances since joining from Genk in a £7million deal three years ago and his goals have been crucial in keeping Villa in the top flight.

Albion will refuse to pay £10m for Phillips

ALBION have warned QPR they will not meet their £10m asking price for transfer target Matt Phillips.

The Baggies are considering alternative targets after Rangers refused to budge on their valuation of the 24-year-old.

And Tony Pulis is ready to move on unless the London club lower their sights.

Albion had an initial offer of £5m rejected at the weekend for the former Blackpool man but remained optimistic a compromise could be found with QPR, who need to offload players following relegation. But so far Loftus Road officials have dug in their heels and Pulis is ready to look elsewhere after ruling that the £10m valuation is too high.

He has already signed Wigan winger James McClean and wants another wide option before the season kicks off at home to Manchester City on August 10.

Albion had hoped to have Phillips on board before the squad flew to America on Sunday for their second pre-season tour.

And they still believe common ground can be found with Rangers over the transfer fee, with Phillips keen to make the move.

But the current impasse in negotiations is dragging on further into the transfer window.

Albion are currently in Austria preparing for tomorrow's opening pre-season friendly against Red Bull Salzburg.

And 19-year-old centre-back Shaun Donnellan has spoken of his delight after flying out to join the first team on the day he signed his first professional contract.

Banks's is set to host Villa U-21s games

WALSALL'S Banks's Stadium will host five Villa under-21 games next season, it has been confirmed.

The young Villans will play Stoke on August 10, Brighton on September 14, Albion on September 28, Newcastle on January 11 and Swans on February 22 at the home of the Saddlers.

All games take place on a Monday night.

"This agreement further cements our excellent working relationship with Aston Villa FC," said Walsall club secretary Daniel Mole.

"We are delighted to be playing host to their under-21 team for five fixtures in the Barclays Under-21 Premier League during the season ahead. It means that we will get to see some of the best emerging young talent in the country."

Wolves in good start with a win

FC Chambly 2 Wolves 3

A five-goal thriller, a late winner, some well-taken goals, plenty of chances and a competitive edge – this was pretty much as good as friendlies get.

Kenny Jackett selected, give or take, his strongest available XI, with Nouha Dicko and Benik Afobe leading the line against third tier French side FC Chambly.

But, with a pre-season game already behind them, it was Chambly who made most of the early running.

Jon Flatt, Wolves' most senior keeper with Carl Ikeme and Aaron McCarey absent, was forced into two early saves with Jackett's team generally hesitant and off the pace in the opening exchanges.

Wolves fell behind when hesitant defending allowed Loockmanne Ouédraogo to squeeze a shot through Flatt's hands, with the ball rolling slowly over the line despite the keeper's despairing second dive.

Wolves rose to the challenge and their best move of the game resulted in a prompt equaliser.

Michael Jacobs, beginning his big audition for the left-wing role made vacant by Bakary Sako's departure, sent a diving header past the keeper.

And it was last season's 32-goal hit-man Afobe who edged Wolves in front with a poacher's finish after controlling a deflected Rajiv van La Parra shot.

In the second half Wolves struggled to find their rhythm. Chambly levelled when Ouédraogo headed past a helpless Harry Burgoyne.

But it was Wolves' other substitute, 18-year-old striker Donovan Wilson, who re-energised the team with some searing pace.

But it was Enobakhare who was in the right place at the right time when he scored a last-gasp winner.

Wolves pull out of deal for Wood due to £3m price tag

WOLVES have pulled out of the race to sign Chris Wood. It is believed Leicester City want £3m for the former Albion man – a figure Wolves are not prepared to match.

Championship rivals Leeds are thought to have stumped up the cash and Wood will sign for the Yorkshire club imminently.

It was initially thought Leicester would have accepted around the £1m mark for the New Zealand international, but sources have revealed that their desired figure is three times that amount.

The 23-year-old has just 12 months left on his deal at the King Power Stadium and cost the Foxes around £2m plus add-ons when he moved from Albiion in 2013.

Wolves had hoped the East Midlands club would accept a far lower fee. They have long held an interest in the player – boss Kenny Jackett keen to sign the man he had him on loan at Millwall in 2012.

Wood scored 11 goals in 18 starts for the Lions and also netted prolifically for Birmingham during another loan spell a year earlier.

Greaves is optimistic over injuries

NATHAN Greaves is backing Cradley to battle through their injury problems and get a National League title challenge back on track.

Heathens have lost Greaves to a broken leg and Michael Neale had surgery last week to plate his broken collarbone.

They'll be looking for three more league points when Buxton visit Perry Barr on Wednesday, July 22 with the possibility of a temporary signing covering for Neale.

And Greaves admits he's not the best of spectators as he prepares to see out the season on the injury list.

Greaves said: "It's been a tough couple of weeks for Cradley, but after winning the League and nearly every trophy going the last two years it was bound to happen sooner or later.

"Some bad luck was always going to come around at some stage, that's just the way speedway goes, and with me and Mike Neale getting injured at the same time things haven't been easy.

"It's frustrating watching updates and not being able to ride, but I'm sure the boys will get through it and manage to get going again.

"As a team we've just got to keep working hard and doing the best we can, and I'm sure we'll be able to pick things up again.

"Hopefully the team can start winning again soon and we can still be in the mix for the title at the end of the year."

Meanwhile, Neale will be having laser treatment in a bid to speed up his recovery from the collarbone injury.

He said: "I was at Birmingham last week to see Steve Williams the physio, and he said to give him a call once my operation was done so I've got in touch with him and started having treatment.

"If that all goes well I'm hoping to be back on a bike in 3-4 weeks, so fingers crossed."

Brits have sure place in the final

A British player is guaranteed a place in Sunday's men's and women's doubles wheelchair tennis finals at Wimbledon after the draw was made at the All England Lawn Tennis Club.

Grand Slam champions Jordanne Whiley and Gordon Reid will both face fellow Brits on the opposite side of the net in their respective women's and men's semi-finals.

Whiley was among the special guests invited into the royal enclosure at Wimbledon for the traditional ritual of the middle Saturday.

She and Japan's Yui Kamiji will play Britain's Louise Hunt and Germany's Katharina Kruger as the top seeds begin their Wimbledon women's doubles titles defence tomorrow with a rematch of last November's UNIQLO Wheelchair Doubles Masters final in California.

Whiley and Kamiji won that contest to retain their Doubles Masters title and after finishing runners-up at Roland Garros last month, they will be aiming for their sixth Grand Slam doubles title in the last seven majors, having completed the calendar year Grand Slam in 2014.

"Winning my home Grand Slam in 2014 was an absolutely unforgettable experience and Wimbledon is my favourite tournament, so it's going to be very special being on court with two Brits in our semi-final and hopefully some enthusiastic crowds cheering us on," said Whiley, 23.

Whiley was recently awarded an MBE in the Queen's Birthday Honours List after becoming the first British tennis player to complete a calendar year Grand Slam in any event last year. "Me and Yui have had several days of practice on the grass now and we're looking forward to moving on from Roland Garros and defending our Wimbledon title."

Mac will stay if the deal is right

KEVIN McDonald insists he doesn't want to leave Wolves and has vowed to sign a new contract if the deal is right.

The midfielder spoke out earlier this week suggesting his future was in the balance, amid interest from Wolves' Championship rivals Fulham.

But the 26-year-old wants his future sorted in the next couple of weeks – and sees that future at Wolves.

McDonald has 12 months remaining on his current deal.

He said: "Hopefully talks start soon and I'll get something sorted here and then we can relax and move on."

"My agent will be speaking to Wolves."

Red Bull charge over Albion

Red Bull 3 Albion 1

ALBION made a losing start to their pre-season campaign as they went down 3-1 to Austrian champions Red Bull Salzburg in the Alps.

Marc Djuricin, Jonatan Soriano and Takumi Minamino scored for the Austrians with teenager Adil Nabi replying for the Baggies, who used 21 players in their first friendly outing.

With the first half played in heavy rain in the small town of Schladming, Boaz Myhill made a low save early on to keep out a drive from Red Bull's Jonatan Soriano and Christoph Leitgeb drew another save from the Baggies keeper shortly afterwards. Soriano and Valon Berisha went close for the Austrian side before Myhill made a point-blank save to deny Djuricin.

But Djuricin fired Red Bull in front on 33 minutes, sneaking a shot inside Myhill's left-hand post from 20 yards.

It was 2-0 to the Austrians just six minutes later when Soriano got on the scoresheet. He burst into the box and beat Myhill from 10 yards.

Callum McManaman tried his luck for Albion two minutes before half-time with a 20-yard shot that was parried by goalkeeper Cican Stankovic before Havard Nielsen drew another good save from Myhill.
